...More Tips...

- For dogs, how far they run is just a matter of how far their legs will carry them. Big, strong dogs, especially young ones, can run five miles. Small dogs may be able to go a mile at most. However, most dogs are recovered within a two mile circle of their home – no matter how strong or fast they are, they normally will not run for an extended period of time in a straight line.
- Cats rarely stray more than two or three blocks from home or cross busy streets, unless they are in heat or chased. Look for cats in the quiet early morning or late evening hours, and make sure to check out neighborhood garages. Canned food left outside your door can tempt a cat to come home.
- If your pet is outgoing, it will be looking for other dogs, cats or humans who are friendly and likely to comfort, feed and shelter it. Neighbors' yards and public parks are spots it may like. If it is a shy or older pet and not trusting of strangers, it will hide - in bushes, under cars, and in garages are good places to search.
- "Lost Pet" signs should be big, colorful and eye catching. Be sure to include the word "REWARD" in big letters to make everyone understand that this is important to you. Include a photo of your pet – if you don't have one, use the internet to find one that looks like your pet.
- Put the signs where the most people who live, work or regularly travel through your area will have a chance to slow down and see them.

Don't Give Up! Keep calling and looking because pets are successfully reunited with their owners weeks and even months after being lost!

Lost Your Pet?

Steps to Help you Bring your Pet Home Safely

- Contact your non-emergency police / sheriff and animal control to report that your pet has been lost. Those numbers are listed on the inside of this brochure. Be as specific as possible in your description, including breed, colors, special markings, age, gender, where they were last seen and if they are wearing a collar with tags, or are tattooed or microchipped. Verify who does animal control for your city and where animals are impounded.
- Animals don't know city boundaries so contact surrounding communities and your county sheriff and do the same as step #1 above. Sometimes animals can be picked up by good samaritans who transport them elsewhere. There are more than 30 impound facilities in the Twin Cities metropolitan area.
- Visit the facilities IN PERSON. Mistakes are easily made in identifying breeds and sexes.
- Post your lost pet on local "lost pets" web sites and keep checking the "found pets" postings (see inside brochure).
- Place "Lost" ads in the newspapers and offer a reward; post flyers and pictures in the area your pet was last seen; alert your neighbors to keep their eyes open.
- Most communities only require a 5-day holding period for strays and sometimes that includes weekends. Continue to call and go in every other day. Don't rely on these facilities to call you if your animal comes in.
- After the 5-day holding period, your animal may be rescued by a local rescue organization, given to a humane society, or euthanized, depending on where the pet is impounded and on its health and temperament.
- You may be able to borrow/rent a livetraps from animal control; be sure to check it often.

Preventive Measures

- Order a tag. Include your address (city and state) and two phone numbers. Keep the tag on your pet at all times.
- Have your pet microchipped or tattooed.
- Make sure you have a current picture of your pet.
- Keep your pet inside. When outside, don't leave it loose, unless within a secure fenced yard.
- Spay or Neuter your pet! Altered pets are less likely to stray and are healthier.

Local Internet Sites to Help Lost and Found Pets

There are many local sites on the internet where people can post and look for lost and found pets. Below are just a few sites to check. When posting animals be sure to include a picture and as many details as possible.

Lost Dogs MN - <https://www.facebook.com/LDoMN>

Lost Cats MN - <https://www.facebook.com/LostCatsMN>

(You don't need a face book page to use the above sites)
